

Dear Parents and Students:

When parents and their children understand table manners, they simply can turn their focus toward conversation and connecting with each other.

Whether it is a casual gathering, a formal dining experience, or a job interview, never underestimate the power knowing how to navigate the table.

Helping families have more pleasant meals and enjoy family time is more important than ever.

During this class, you and your child will experience:

- Setting a formal vs. informal place setting, American vs. Continental styles of dining
- Different ways to hold the knife, spoon, fork, along with other utensils and napkin etiquette
- Interact with the host, servers, or your future employer
- The power of first impressions as well as last impressions
- And most importantly, the REASONS behind why we follow these rules, and why we break them!

So, whether you are impressed with your child's manners, or not, this is FUN and basic tutorial to give the family some reinforcement, along with concepts to discuss at future gathering ... at the table, and beyond!

Thank you and hope to see you in class!
